The web is the sheet of newsprint that winds through the press.

When they get it working however, it will be all right.

Cancer Drive Sponsored By Woman's Club

Murray Woman's Club is sponsoring the 1952 Cancer Crusade for Calloway County. Mrs. W. J. Gibson is chairman on the special educational campaign, and working with her are Mrs. A. F. Doran, civic chairman of the club; Mrs. R. M. Lamb; Mrs. T. B. Culpepper, president of the Homemakers club; Mrs. Myrtle Lamb, president of the Woman's club, and Dr. J. A. Outland, county health officer.

This committee of interested workers set up plans for the work at a meeting of the First District meeting of the American Cancer Society held recently at Kentucky Dam Park Lodge at Gilbertsville.

This program of educating the public to the "101 Answers To Your Questions About Cancer" with posters, bulletins and publicity has been planned by the committee for the month of April.

Mack Sisk, county commander, Mrs. T. C. Carroll, commander of the state cancer organization, spoke at the district meeting. Charles E. Tucker, executive director and Mrs. Joe Page, commander of the First District, spoke enthusiastically for the work.

After luncheon speakers were Mrs. Horace B. Richie, field representative; Dr. J. Duffy Hancock, Louisville; and Dr. R. W. Roberts, Paducah.

The speakers urged the First District workers to make a strenuous effort in April to reach every family with the educational knowledge is the weapon with which to fight cancer, they want the public to know that improved cure rates depend on seeing a doctor early when one detects a suspicion that might indicate cancer.

Batista Fails In Obtaining Title Of Cuba President

General Batista seized the government of Cuba, but he's having a more difficult time seizing the title that goes with it.

The title of President. The man who held the title until the military revolution three days ago has refused to give it up. And because he won't Carlos Prío Socarras is being kept from leaving the country for exile in Mexico.

General Batista rode triumphantly into Havana, the capital, yesterday to the cheers of troops and police who helped put over the revolution. And the first thing he did was take over the title of Premier, in a formal ceremony.

Then he demanded that Prío, who has taken refuge in the Mexican embassy, resign the presidency as the price for safe-conduct out of the country.

Prío refused. The Mexican ambassador tried to mediate the dispute, but it was no use. Now Prío's departure for Mexico is being held up indefinitely.

Meanwhile the office of president is being left "vacant."

Fifteen Die In B-29 Crash Today

Two bombers with training crews aboard have blundered into each other in Texas skies—and the tragic mistake cost 15 lives. The B-29s were both on training missions from Randolph Air Force Base, where air crews are trained for combat. Both the big ships had canvas covers over the cockpits, to condition pilots to flying blind—and student pilots at the controls.

Seven men were aboard one plane—eight were in the other. The planes collided about 30 miles northwest of San Antonio, over a remote wooded section. There aren't even any telephone circuits in the area—so it was hours before the first reports came out.

Now, a ranch hand who saw the crash has told his story. Dean MacDonald says one plane crashed in the other at right angles, and sheared off the tail of the second ship.

MacDonald, who watched the whole thing from the ground, says the second ship fluttered to earth, but the first plane apparently was in no trouble. But about five miles away, it went into a steep glide—and never came out.

Both planes exploded and burned when they hit the ground. Reports from an Air Force spotter plane said there was wreckage strewn over a quarter of a mile from one of the crashes. Fledermaus.

Local Agents Are Invited To Attend Extension Meeting

Lexington, Ky., S. V. Foy county agent, and Rachel Rowland, home demonstration agent of Calloway County have been invited by Dr. Frank J. Welch, dean of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, to attend a meeting of extension service agents at Dawson Springs next Monday for the purpose of discussion plans for the establishment of a youth and educational camp there.

Representing the College of Agriculture at the meeting will be T. R. Bryant, Association Director of Extension Service and J. W. Whitehouse, State 4-H Club leader. Planning of the rural youth camp and the raising of additional funds for the project will be discussed. Presently there is approximately $50,000 available from a donation made to the University by Carl Sparks, Caldwell County farmer, and a grant recommended by Governor Lawrence Wetherby to the State Property and Buildings Commission.

Mack Sisk, Dawson Springs, Finance Chairman for the project, will outline the existing facilities at the former Dawson Springs State Park site, and explain details of the needs and fund raising campaign. The group of county agents and home demonstration agents representing some 30 western Kentucky counties will be taken on an inspection tour of the 450-acre site.

Fight Made For Foreign Aid Program

By United Press

The administration sent its defense brain trust up to Capitol Hill today to fight for passage of seven-billion-900-million dollars in foreign aid.

The roster included Secretary of State Dean Acheson, defense secretary Robert Lovett, Mutual Security Administrator Overell Harriman, and chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, General Omar Bradley.

The quartet appeared before a joint session of the Senate foreign relations committee and the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Lovett was the lead-off man. He broomed economy-minded congressmen that every penny spent in American foreign aid would depend on the degree of cooperation by the nations receiving such aid.

Mutual Security Director Harriman spoke next. He argued that foreign aid is the cheapest way to insure the security of the nation. "Security is in men," said Harriman. "I do not believe that we should reserve to the young men of this country the exclusive privilege of fighting for freedom."

Secretary of State Acheson warned that any cut in foreign aid now might wreck the western defense against Communism. Said Acheson: Europe now stands at a point in history "when great advances can be made which will endure for centuries."

General Bradley pointed out that the whole mutual security program for fiscal 1953 will cost only a little more than one month of World War Two. "It is the best investment," said he, "at the least cost, not only in dollars, but in lives."

Despite the eloquent arguments, congressmen—with their eyes on the voters—are expected to take a one-billion-dollar slice out of the foreign aid appropriation.

By United Press

One of the great stars of movie-land is dead this morning.

Sixty-six year old Hugh Herbert, whose comic antics enlivened stage, screen and radio for decades, succumbed to a heart attack in his Hollywood home.

The "Woo-Woo" comedian, famous for his fluttershanty, had completed his last film only a week ago.

Before going to Hollywood, Herbert was a vaudeville headliner, for 25 years. During the last year of his life, he appeared in opera and television. He was a big hit in New Orleans last January, when he played a comedy role in the Metropolitan opera production of "Dieu d'un mile from one of the crashes. Fledermaus."

FIREMEN CALLED TO AUTOMOBILE FIRE

The Murray Fire Department was called to an automobile fire this morning in front of the telephone company. The car belonged to an out of town man who stayed at the hotel. The fire apparently burned in the back seat all night, and possibly was slowed by the exhaustion of oxygen in the automobile. The back seat of the car was burned up when firemen arrived and extinguished the blaze. The car was filled with smoke this morning when the driver opened the door to continue his journey.

MISUNDERSTANDINGS CAUSE WALKOUTS

PADUCAH March 13 (UP)—Officials of the F. H. McGraw Company have blamed "misunderstandings" of new shift scheduled for walkouts by workers at the huge atomic energy plant at Paducah, Ky.

F. J. Mayo, the project manager for McGraw's major contractor, says that a new work schedule put into effect for second-shift workers last Monday night has caused some differences in pre-ming pay.

However, Mayo says "no violation of any agreement with any craft union has been made by the McGraw Company" and says "no former grievance has been filed by the union."

The project manager says that the walkouts that have occurred this week are caused by "lack of knowledge of existing agreements." He says there have been no authorized work stoppages and adds "that the scattered walkouts have not caused any stoppage of work."

According to Mayo, operations at the multi-million dollar project are proceeding normally.

Pryor, agricultural agent for the Illinois Central Railroad. The Illinois Central has been actively and vigorously promoting good forestry practices for the past seven years.

Kefauver To Try Luck In Florida

By United Press

The man who beat President Truman at the voting booth in New Hampshire is looking for new worlds to conquer.

Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee has announced he'll try his luck in the Florida presidential primary on March 18.

Kefauver's political star will get an earlier test in Wisconsin. The Wisconsin presidential primary is April 1st. And the Tennessee Senator is facing the pro-Truman favorite son candidates in the pre-convention runoff.

Kefauver also has decided to put his popularity on the line in New Jersey where he may face another contest with President Truman. However, his New Jersey campaign manager says the Senator probably won't do any active campaigning before the primary April 15.

Taft is hoping that if he makes a strong showing in Wisconsin and in Illinois a week later he can overcome some of the ground lost to General Dwight Eisenhower in the New Hampshire primary yesterday.

But both men can expect some competition in New Jersey from the "Poor-Man's Party" of Henry Krajeski. Henry operates a pig farm and bar, is running on a three point platform: cuts for elimination of all taxes on liquor and beer; firm and vigorous price control on meats; with a rollback of prices to January 1949, and government sponsorship of small-time gambling to give a "poor man can enjoy a little fun."

METHODIST CONFERENCE TO BE AT MOREHEAD

LOUISVILLE (UP)—The secretary of the annual conference of Kentucky's Methodist churches, Dr. Homer Moore, says this year's conference will be held at Morehead State College August 27th through 31st.

Ministerial and lay delegates from all Methodist churches in the Kentucky Conference are scheduled to attend the meeting at Morehead, Kentucky.

Plans for the 122nd session include discussion of the admission of new members, granting of retirements; evangelism, pensions, hospitals and education.

US May Force Communists To Show Their Hand In Korea

By United Press

The United States may try to force the Communists to show their hand in Korea.

High officials in Washington say this country and its allies are fed up with continued Communist stalling and insults at the conference table. The officials report moves are being studied to force the Reds to reveal whether they really want a Korean armistice.

In the trade talks today, the Reds again did a complete about face on the scope of the Korean negotiations. At one time the Reds favored a truce for Korea only—with other far eastern areas left to take care of themselves. Now, for the second time, the Communists are demanding the area of agreement be extended to outlaw any possible American blockade of the Chinese coast.

The Peiping radio continued its charges that the allies are spreading the bubonic plague in North Korea. The Red broadcast said that a Chinese judge—who sat at war crimes trials in Tokyo—has called for the trial of all Americans connected with germ warfare in Korea.

Almost in the same breath, the Chinese Communist radio turned around and denied that epidemics of plague have broken out. It said "swift action" prevented spread of plague diseases.

The UN has repeatedly denied that it is using germ warfare. The International Red Cross wants to find out just what's going on.

The Red Cross announced that it has sent cablegrams to the Communists offering to investigate its germ warfare charges.

So far—no reply from the Communists.

On the fighting front, allied tanks rolled into Communist territory on the east-central front and knocked out nine enemy bunkers and two machine gun positions. On the western front, allied infantrymen recaptured a hill taken earlier in an attack by Red troops.

Murray Branch AAUW Meet On Tuesday

The Murray Branch of the American Association of University Women met Tuesday evening in the Science Building at Murray State College with Mrs. Herbert Halpert presiding in the absence of the president, Miss Lydia Welhing.

In keeping with the theme of the year's program, "Every Child—Our Concern," the program consisted of two short films from the United Nations about what is being done for children of the world.

The first film, "Hungry Minds," gave a background of the conditions just after the war and the second film showed work done by the UNRRA for immediate relief and that done by the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund which took over after UNRRA ceased work in 1953. As conditions have improved UNICEF has shifted from emergency aid to public health work.

In the business session which followed new officers elected were Mrs. Halpert, president; Mrs. Don Fieschner, secretary; Mrs. W. D. Aeschbacher, vice-president, who takes the place of Mrs. Halpert who resigned to become president.

The branch voted to send Mrs. Halpert as a delegate to the South Central Regional AAUW meeting in Birmingham, Ala., April 17-18. The state AAUW convention is to be held with the Northern Kentucky branch in Cincinnati, Ohio, March 28-30.

Symsonia Edges Brewers, Cuba Swamps Clinton In Regional

By Bill Smith

Symsonia rallied in the last quarter to trip Brewers 42-36 and Cuba romped over Clinton 74-39 as the First Regional Tournament got underway at the Carr Health Building last night.

The winners of last night's games will meet in the semi-finals Friday night.

Tonight's action will pit Bandana against Wickliffe at 7:30 and Sharpe against Bardwell at 9:00.

Symsonia came from behind in the last quarter to edge Brewers 42-36 in the opening game of the tournament.

Trailing by five points, 36-31, at the start of the final period the Rough Riders started using an all-out press during the final minutes. Brewers seemed baffled by these tactics as they lost the ball repeatedly on bad passes.

Symsonia tied the score at 36-36 midway through the period, then went ahead to stay a few seconds later on a free throw by Lawson.

Brewers scored only two points during the final eight minutes. These came on a pair of free throws in the last two minutes after Symsonia had held the Red-men scoreless for the first six minutes of the last quarter.

Symsonia led 14-8 after the first quarter but Brewers rallied to pull into a 24-24 tie at halftime. Brewers went ahead for the first time in the game, 26-24, shortly after the start of the second half. They kept the lead until four minutes to go in the last quarter when the Rough Riders pulled out in front 37-26.

Detroit Tigers Like Sick Kitten

By United Press

The Detroit Tigers looks more like a sick kitten this spring. And no one is more aware of it than manager Al Royle.

"We're too slow and can't hit that home run ball," Royle told this station's spring training correspondent, Dean C. Miller, sports editor of United Press at the Tiger training camp in Lakeland, Fla.

"Just look at my infield," added the Tiger manager. "It's like my 25 homers all last season. One in fielder on most other clubs his that many."

What's Red doing to come up with more batting punch? Well, he's experimenting at first base. Vic Wertz, normally an outfielder, and a good one, has been working out there.

"If he can make it, and I think he can, it'll give that infield more punch."

That's sound reasoning. But Red's master plan won't add a single homer unless Wertz comes through. And that's still doubtful.

Wertz is an adaptable athlete. But playing first base is an art. It means learning to charge bunts, making the double play and moving gracefully around the sack. So far, he has looked clumsy. But he may be able to pick up polish before opening day. Red is hoping so.

If the Wertz experiment fails, Royle probably will go with Ben Taylor, who played a few games with the St. Louis Browns last season. He hit only 258 but Royle says he's a better batter than that.

Red could be right. Taylor has been getting good wood on the ball even at this early stage of the spring training game.

The biggest surprise in camp is Johnny Phillips, who hit .365 at Toledo. Johnny is an outfielder but the Tiger infield is growing old. So Red's trying to make a third baseman out of Phillips. And he's looking to the switch like a cat to catnip.

In the first intra-squad game, Phillips was the big gun. All he did that afternoon was hit a home, a double and a single. And he's been hitting solidly ever since.

Jack Tighe, the Buffalo manager who had Phillips at Toledo, goes all out for Johnny. Tighe says he'd rather have Phillips than the Yanks' rookie hot-shot of last year, Mickey Mantle. Phillips may not win a Tiger uniform this year, but he's almost a cinch to make it in 1953.

With the exception of Hal Newhouse, the Tiger pitching staff is rounding into shape nicely. Hal still doesn't know whether he can go it this year. His left arm is kicking up.

But Royle says he'll be satisfied if Hal starts only one game a week. And Newhouse thinks he can do that.

British Say US Tanks No Good

By United Press

A British tank regiment commander says American tanks in Korea have proved inferior to the British Centurion.

In fact, Colonel Sir William Low-ther said American Patton tanks "were made for Hollywood, not for fighting."

Lowther and another British tank officer addressed 1000 workers in a plant at Leeds, England, that makes the Centurion tank. Lowther said that in one battle, 32 mixed American and British tanks were stopped by a Red minefield. He said later all the Centurions got out on their own power but all the American tanks had to be towed out.

Another British officer told the workers that "American tanks in Korea are no good."

Nail Polish Can Be Button Preserver

Tired of the constant struggle to keep buttons sewed on? The home economist for the Alabama extension service has an answer: "When a new garment comes into the house, before it is worn, touch the center of each button with colorless nail polish."

"This seals the threads so they will not unravel."

The idea is specially recommended for men's and boys' shirts.

Cunning Of Women Amazes-Man Who Handles Contest

By United Press
The cunning of women amazes a man who gets 500,000 letters a month, most of them from the fair sex.

Promoter Al Petker handles an average of 100 contests a month for radio and television shows. Petker says that only 10 per cent of the contest entrants are the regulars who enter every something-for-nothing sweepstakes.

Some eager ladies, he finds, will enter a contest illegally under 30 different names. Others rush from town to town to get different postmarks on their letters.

And some women, the astonished Petker adds, have formed clubs to pool their brains on contests entries.

"These club members sometimes write 500 letters among themselves," he says. "Then, if one wins, they split the prizes. If they don't win, they insist the contest was a phony."

Petker conducts one contest for disc jockeys, wherein the first person to phone in the correct answer wins a three-year supply of floor wax. He says the women fear this one up by dialing the contest number, except for the last digit, before the program starts.

Then, says the harassed contest man, "they stick a wad of gum on the dial to hold it and this ties up the phone line. After the question is read, they take out the gum, dial the last digit, and they're the first person on the line."

Overweight Lady Of 201 Pounds Lands Movie Contract

By United Press
In a town where an added pound is as welcome as the hives, one well-fed beauty has found success for the very reason that she is overweight.

Muriel Landers was visiting Hollywood from her home in New York when she was snatched up for a leading role in a coming movie. The lady, it seems, is a perfect 42, tips the scales at 201, is five feet, one inch tall.

Miss Landers was discovered, to be precise, over a piece of banana cream pie while she was a lunch guest at the Fox Studio commissary. She was just what the director ordered.

Before her lunch had time to settle she'd been whisked through screen test and signed to play an Indian opposite a 267-pound screen-husband, Thomas Gomez.

It's her first Hollywood venture but Muriel Landers isn't new to acting. She says she never lacks for jobs, "because every time I eat in a restaurant in New York some producer comes up and offers me one."

And she adds, "I find audiences like me, too. After all, half the women in the audience are more like me than like Anna Turner."

Wesleyan Circle Meets Tonight At Student Center

The Wesleyan Circle of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church will meet tonight at seven-thirty at the Student Center.

Mrs. Gordon Moody will be the program chairman. Mrs. Wesley Kemper and Mrs. Maurice Ryan will be hostesses.

Underwater Storage System May Cut Cost Fuel Oil

By United Press
A new underwater storage may cut the cost of fuel oil in half for New Yorkers.

The project to cost 10 million dollars is planned by the Styvesant Fuel Service Corporation of New York and Seagraves and associates of Dallas. The saving will be made by eliminating barge hauling of oil from the harbor to tank terminals on shore.

Underwater tanks to store one million barrels of oil are planned on the Long Island side of the East River and tanks to store 2,000 barrels on the Manhattan side. The tanks will be connected by a pipeline crossing the river.

Tankers will come up the river and unload into the underwater tanks instead of to barges at the New Jersey oil terminals as at present. Barge costs and long truck hauls from New Jersey now constitute almost half the retail cost of fuel oil in New York City.

The director of the National Pest Control Association, Jacques Hess, says flies are breeding earlier than usual this year and housekeepers will have to work harder to control them this summer.

Hess urged housewives to do their spring cleaning early and kill all early swarms of flies.

He pointed out that one fly killed in early spring will keep hundreds from being hatched.

Another Use For Formula Terralac

By United Press
Terralac, the milk and terramycin formula which has made it possible to raise pigs in brooderies like baby chicks is now being used to rear calves, goats, lambs and even baby mink on fur farms.

This was reported today at the meeting of the National Fur Chemurgic Council in St. Louis. The report was presented by Herbert G. Luther of Charles Pfizer and Company of New York, the firm that developed Terralac.

Stylists Taking Man's View On Women Hair Styles

By United Press
For once the hair stylists are taking the man's point of view on the way women should wear their hair.

The thousands of beauty experts now attending the International beauty show in New York say the poodle cut is just about to go back to the dogs.

As one beauty show official put it, "we're going to try to kill the poodle for good here." One way they hope to do it is by dressing up models to resemble poodles, even to the fuzzy costumes.

In place of the poodle cut, according to hair stylist Robert King, girls will wear their hair longer and fluffier.

"The poodle cut is good for business," King said, "because girls must get so many permanents. But men don't like such short hair."

Japanese Ladies Stare At American Children, Hardware

By United Press
Five Japanese housewives are staring in wonder, these days, at American children and American kitchen hardware.

To the tiny Japanese, American youngsters seem enormous. And in comparison to supplies at home, American kitchen gadgets are amazing.

The five women are home economists from the Ryukyu Islands just south of Japan proper. They are in New York as part of a three-month tour to study homemaking United States style.

One of them, Mrs. Kimiyu Onaga, a teacher at the University of the Ryukyus, says: "The children here are so big."

Another, Mrs. Yukiko Shimamoto says: "We want to take back with us egg slicers, potato peelers and some of your can openers."

The women can name only one thing in which they think their home country has it all over America. They say every woman who possibly could, turned out to vote last month when their island's government representatives were elected.

Says Mrs. Onaga, "we understand over here that everybody votes who is able."

Average Housewife Washes Acre Dirty Dishes Every Year

By United Press
A British industrial group has come up with some statistics to frighten or at least discourage any young homemaker.

They claim the average British housewife washes an acre of dirty dishes every year, and a square mile of glass. In addition she scrubs five-square miles of floor. And to top it off she washes three square miles of clothing.

These facts came out in a discussion at a gas service conference where it also was revealed that for all these shores the homemaker needs to turn on the hot water 60 times a day.

Non-Stick Baking Tin In The Future

By United Press
It won't be here for a while, but long suffering cooks can at least enjoy anticipating a non-stick baking tin of the future.

Makers of plastic say they will produce a kind of baking pan that won't allow the breakfast muffins, the bread or cake to stick. And you won't have to grease it at all.

This innovation will be the result of a new plastic to coat the insides of the baking pans. It will be some time before the pans are on the market because other commercial uses for the plastic are being developed first.

Clem Labine Is Stepping Into The Shoes Of 20 Game Winner

By United Press

It's a man-sized job to step into the shoes of a 20-game winner like Don Newcombe, and that's just what the Brooklyn Dodgers are asking of Clem Labine.

Newcombe is in the army and the search for a replacement is on. It may be that one of the lesser members of the Dodger mound staff will take up the slack. Perhaps a rookie like Roy Black or Bob Alexander will plug the gap. A third possibility is a trade. All three hopes are very slim. It probably will have to be Labine or Dodger fans can start their "wait until next year" chant earlier this season.

There are many competent observers who are certain Labine is the boy to do it. His record for 1951 was a rather unimpressive five wins and one loss. But there's more to that than meets the eye.

Labine started last season with the Dodgers but was warmed out to St. Paul early in May after only five innings of relief work. The Brooklyn mound crew started coming apart at the seams in mid-season and Labine was recalled. A sprained ankle sidelined Labine for two weeks, but once he was ready the rest of the National League knew Clem was around.

Labine got his first start against Cincinnati late in August. Clem beat the Reds and added four more wins before he faced the Philadelphia Phils on September 21st. It just wasn't Labine's day. The Phils tagged him for seven hits, including a grand slam homer, in less than two innings. Clem wound up in the dugout and the dog-house. His only other regular season appearance was a brief relief job in the final game.

The New York Giants won the opening game in the best out of three playoff. Dodger manager Charlie Dressen was desperate, just about out of pitchers. In a do-or-die try, Dressen called on Labine for the second, and possibly final, game of the playoffs.

The six-foot, 180 pounder kept the Dodgers in business. Labine had the Giants dizzy with his sinker and sharp breaking curve ball as the Dodgers evened the playoff with a 10-9 win. That sinker ball is Labine's ace in the hole. It's particularly effective because of a crooked first finger on Labine's right hand which he injured while playing amateur football in Woonsocket, Rhode Island.

Labine is as cool as a cucumber once he digs spikers into the pitching slab. The sharp-featured, blond, 26-year old righty set in the dugout for 41 minutes when rain stopped that second playoff game. Southpaw Preacher Roe asked Labine, "don't let this cool you off, kid." Labine quietly replied, "don't worry, I've had this before. I'll finish." And finish he did.

Labine had a rubber arm. He seems tireless. In 1948 Labine appeared in 40 games for Pueblo of the Western League. Clem led the American Association in 1949 when he took part in 64 games while with St. Paul. Labine's been in organized baseball since 1944 when he broke in with New York News. Ever since, Clem's thrived on work and he's likely to get plenty of it during the 1952 season.

Labine is the protégé of Dodger vice-president, Presco Thompson. Freeo was singing the praises of Labine during last spring training. "This kid," said Thompson, "has the experience and natural equipment. He has a fast singer ball that is difficult for hitters to get good wood on. I think he has the control to make good."

Labine intends to come through for his boss.

Many people think Labine saw army service as a paratrooper. But Clem denies this.

"I spent two and one-half years in the infantry," explains Labine.

Down Concord Way

Sunday was a lovely day, and people took advantage of it by getting out on the road.

Our skies are always overclouded through to some extent when we hear of so much illness and read of so many tragedies.

Mrs. Herman Lovins left the first of the week for May's Clinic in Minnesota where she hopes to find a cure for her persistent headaches.

We hear that Ike Wilderson is hospitalized for eye treatment.

The small son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Allen Bury, recently moved to Concord in Tom Nance's house. He has had strep-throat.

Mrs. Rainey Lovins had to be treated for throat trouble Saturday. With no telephone down at Concord, sick folks have it tough.

I have always heard that "necessity was the mother of invention." I found it true one of those cold nights last week. I waited until after sundown before going to the hen-house to gather the eggs. I went inside and pulled the door shut behind me to keep out the cold wind. The door had two buttons and both of them buttoned from the outside, so there I was.

"We were sent all over the place. Just say I was in the European theater of operations and let it go at that."

Labine was his usual cool, calm self during most of that second playoff game against the Giants, but he admits having a few uneasy moments.

"I felt those fences crowding me in," recalls Clem. "You know, at the Polo grounds they're so close you almost can reach out and touch both at the same time from the pitcher's mound."

Labine faces a tough road trying to replace Newcombe. But the Dodgers are putting all their eggs in the Labine basket, and hoping they hatch 20 victories.

that in with not a person near. The tournament was on at Murray so the men were gone, and Bibb Studd down at the Church of Christ had detained the women. Second, it was up to me to get out. I couldn't find a splinter to pry through the crack of the door, but suddenly I thought of a bobby pin. I had one, and by straightening it out I could reach the plunger which turned easily, though not so simultaneously but that I still had to work to get out. Nevertheless, I pass the idea on to you.

Then she got one of those breaks that make the difference between fame and oblivion. A schoolmate sent the salesgirl's picture to a movie fan magazine contest in 1947. The salesgirl won the contest, and the usual trip to Hollywood. She got the usual screen test, too.

Most such contest winners take the next train back home. But the salesgirl won a contract at 20th Century Fox. And you know her name—Jean Peters—the star of the current "Via Zaphra".

Now a sequel to this Cinderella story is being written. Jean's schoolmate, who sent the picture to the magazine, is out in Hollywood to try this acting business herself. She's making her stage debut in a little theater production of "On the Town." And to repay that favor, Jean has consented to design the costumes for the musical.

And therein lies another story. The brunette beauty hopes to be a dress designer when she's through with acting. But she's interested only in designing for women with problem figures.

All the top designers at Fox have taught her their tricks," she says. "I'm serious about this business of wanting to be a corrective designer."

At the idea when I worked in that department I watched women of all miss shapes trying to get into clothes that didn't fit them.

Many types of figures can't get into ready-made clothes," she says. "Manufacturers at last have come out with clothes for short, medium and tall girls. But no outfit is designed for the wide-hipped, the narrow-shouldered or other problem figures."

Jean Peters Rose To Stardom After Work As Sales Girl

By United Press

Five years ago a pretty, green-eyed brunette was going to college in Ann Arbor, Michigan, and spending money she won't miss.

Another thing I object to," Jean Peters says, "is tail girls wearing great wide hunkers of belt. And if a girl has arms too long, she shouldn't wear sleeveless dresses or they'll look like apes. If your hands are large and your wrists are small, never wear bracelet length sleeves."

"Stout women should stick to monotonous and straight simple lines."

Jean's advice for the too-thin girl is to learn to move gracefully and wear flowing clothes. The thin girl, she says, never should wear tight cuffs or tight klets or ankle strips which exaggerate her bony wrists, hips or ankles. She should stick to fluffy Angora sweaters full skirts and heavy fabrics.

One last word from Jean. As she puts it, "clothes don't make the woman—the woman makes the clothes look good by her posture, her bearing, her spirit. The lift-in-chin-tummy-in rule can make a 15-dollar dress look like 150 dollars."

Then she got one of those breaks that make the difference between fame and oblivion. A schoolmate sent the salesgirl's picture to a movie fan magazine contest in 1947. The salesgirl won the contest, and the usual trip to Hollywood. She got the usual screen test, too.

Most such contest winners take the next train back home. But the salesgirl won a contract at 20th Century Fox. And you know her name—Jean Peters—the star of the current "Via Zaphra".

Now a sequel to this Cinderella story is being written. Jean's schoolmate, who sent the picture to the magazine, is out in Hollywood to try this acting business herself. She's making her stage debut in a little theater production of "On the Town." And to repay that favor, Jean has consented to design the costumes for the musical.

And therein lies another story. The brunette beauty hopes to be a dress designer when she's through with acting. But she's interested only in designing for women with problem figures.

All the top designers at Fox have taught her their tricks," she says. "I'm serious about this business of wanting to be a corrective designer."

At the idea when I worked in that department I watched women of all miss shapes trying to get into clothes that didn't fit them.

Oh, yes an hour to put it to rest. The weighty cares of the world have brought.

Then ever afterward to think Of what we saw that God had wrought.

Work now is progressing to take lead at the same time to save America's last frontier, the Florida Everglades.

There are four-and-a-half million acres of rich mud land in the everglades south of Lake Okechobee. Much of it can be reclaimed by drainage and water control for farming and cattle grazing.

The previous everglades drainage programs have backfired by a large extent. The land was drained too fast. This caused the dried peat bogs to catch fire in dry seasons and much land was ruined by the flames. At the same time, the drainage of the fresh water caused salt water from the sea to seep in the porous rock under the soil and rise to replace the fresh water.

The new everglades drainage program to cost some 200-million dollars—is designed to avoid these dangers.

Cherry Rt. 6

News

We should never be surprised about the changeable weather that we have in March. Spring-like weather may be what we are expecting, but we have had cold days, sunny days, and last Monday was one of the rainy days.

About eighteen or twenty years ago, we had a very mild winter until March and then we had snow and ice.

Several folks in this neighborhood are having birthdays this month—the ones I know are Jim McCutcheon, Mrs. Beaton Pitts, Rita Hay Farris, Mason Outland and Joe Fay Winchester—happy birthday to you, I have a birthday this month too.

Our congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thompson, who got married last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Clayton (my sister) and Thomas and Bobby of Buchanan, Tenn., were dinner guests out home Sunday. In the afternoon the men and boys went over to see the watch-tower that was built last fall in the southwest corner of Orvin McCutcheon's pine tree farm. I think they say the tower is 30 feet high, the plans are not that tall yet.

Thomas Clayton is Salutatorian for the '32 graduation class of Buchanan high school. Congratulations to our nephew.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim McCutcheon of Route 3 have as a visitor in their home Mr. McCutcheon's mother, of Tiptonville, Tennessee.

We can begin to imagine how Mrs. Jim McCutcheon's living room and bed rooms are going to look after a basketball game, Tommy and Dan played on New Concord jr. high team this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hodges and sons visited Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thompson of the Sugar Creek community one night last week.

Brother Harold Lassiter, pastor of Poplar Spring Baptist church, was a visitor in the Cherry Corner church last Sunday night. He tells us they had a wonderful day at their church Sunday with a large attendance.

Mrs. Eula Hurt recently spent several days in Metropolis with her children and grandchildren.

Charlie Henry and Arvin McCutcheon finished gathering their "crop" of corn last week.

Gary Farris was a weekend's visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Keep Farris and children.
